

...consider this...an invitation...

...consider our means and capability and willingness to shape lives and landscapes.

To share and shape experience. In contexts of differing, often drifting, perceptions, realities & aspirations... including our own...

...consider our responsibilities, our values, our desires, our individual capacity for sharing and exchange, of influence and enrichment...of depth and meaning...

...consider and understand that nothing is absolute...

...consider the importance of, and possibilities offered by collaboration, co-operation and meaningful contribution...

...consider new ways of listening. Of seeing and responding to the world differently, unexpectedly and from different points of view. With open minds and open hearts.

With untold imagination. With innovation. Authentically. Liberate and be liberated...

...consider local distinctiveness and sense of place. Always. The identity and 'fingerprints' of the unfamiliar; the ordinariness and everydayness of as yet unknown communities and their homes. Their people. Their place. See it through their eyes, their lives and experience...

...ask yourselves 'What makes a place a place?' and seek the answers within, without and thereabouts...

...consider our collective and individual potential within all of this...

...consider this for St.Peters & The Moors.

...consider this for all of your endeavours. Every day.

...consider this for life...

...consider this an invitation...